"THANK YOU" FROM THE MADDOCK CLAN

We cannot express enough love and gratitude from our family to everyone who made our last Sunday on staff at CPCC so meaningful. From the morning service with so many kind and affirming words, to an afternoon smiling so much our faces hurt the next morning...it was beyond amazing!

Over our years of ministry, we have been blessed to be on the receiving end of so much support and goodwill; you all have made being a pastor such a positive calling. Our marriage has been encouraged by you all, and our kids have grown into adulthood with a love for the Lord due to so many of you pouring yourselves into them as they grew up.

The Lord has been so good to us, and in numerous ways he has used you to minister to us, and for that we are humbled and grateful.

We are excited about the future of CPCC, and our small part in serving, worshiping and thanking God alongside each of you.

Again, we cannot say it enough...thank you...we love you!

Heading Home,

tim

A Child Like Faith with a PK Heart

Ephesians 6:1-4

<sup>1</sup> Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. <sup>2</sup> “Honor your father and mother” which is the first commandment with a promise <sup>3</sup> “so that it may go well with you and that you may enjoy long life on the earth.” <sup>4</sup> Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord.

I have been taking the last couple of months letting you in on a little bit of who the Slack family is. While I have not gone into deep and intimate details of our family, I have given you a bit of the dynamic of what it is to be a pastor, pastor’s wife, and now today, the PK (Preacher’s kid).

Preacher’s kid. Right there are two heavy words that fall on any child growing up in the church. One, the expectations on a preacher’s kid may not be seen by all but are very much felt by the child. Two, no matter how much you may not see it, the PK often struggles with a lack of identity because they are often compared to the pastor and struggle with not feeling they have very much privacy.

Before we get too far into this, let me tell you a little bit about my son. He is one who is filled with a heart of compassion, like no other I have ever seen, and he is only ten. His desire to want to help people is very deep. There have been so many times that Jonah has bought food with his own money to simply bless someone on the side of the road. He engages them. He wants so badly to help them. It’s who he is.

He is one of the funniest kids I have ever met. His belly laughs are infectious. He also can make people laugh when they most need it. I can’t tell you how many times he has taken our day and made it brighter. He is such a fun and goofy kid. It’s who he is.

He negotiates better than any lawyer or politician I have ever met. I’m not sure how he does it, but I can come into a room and tell him it is time for bed in 30 minutes, and he can negotiate another hour out of the deal. He is soooooooooo good at this. It’s who he is.

But in all these things, nothing is more important to us than this. He is a child of God and came to God the same way all of us did, in need of Jesus and redemption. He gave his life to Jesus, was saved, and then followed through with Baptism on September 18, 2016. He is a child of God. It’s who he is.

So, here is my plea today. See Jonah for who he is and is continuing to become. I will give you a couple of things to consider as you build a relationship with this incredible little man and every other PK you encounter in this life.

One, do not place unrealistic expectations on any PK. Many place a halo over the head of the PK and expect it to not bend. "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." (This includes the PK.) How often has a phrase like this been said, "Can you believe what the PK did?" I've never heard anyone say, "Did you hear what the electrician's kid did?" The PK will fall from time to time and this is a chance for the body of Christ to show the PK that the church body really is what dad preaches; full of compassion, grace, and love. It's who you are.

Two, don't take for granted the sacrifice it is to be a PK. Most do not see the extra time that is put in at the church for the PK. They put in a lot of hours alongside the preaching dad. It is an unseen labor that cannot be overlooked. You all have already done a phenomenal job of pouring into him and we thank you greatly for that! You have made him feel welcomed, loved, and included. It's who you are.

Lastly, pray for every PK you know. The stats are astounding of how many PK's leave the church because they did not like the pressures and saw things behind the scenes that they did not like. In visiting with Tim, he expressed that this was not the case for his kids. He said you all did a fantastic job investing in the lives of his children and they noticed it. That's who you are.

Thanks for being who you are. Thanks for loving the PK the way you have and will continue to do. Thanks for allowing my PK to develop into what God is calling him to be and continue to be the awesome body of Christ that makes this church so special. That's who we all are.

The top of the mountain

We can never say that we have reached the top. The top is just a launching point for another journey.

Moses had many amazing things happen when he reached the summit. As a matter of fact, he made two trips up the mountain. But, in the end, the mountaintop was just a beginning to a new journey.

If you are not sure how that all turned out just read (Genesis, chapters 32-34). God showed up. Moses came down from the mountain and everything was great....RIGHT?

Jesus went to the mountain (Luke, 6:12-16), <sup>12</sup> One of those days Jesus went out to a mountainside to pray, and spent the night praying to God. <sup>13</sup> When morning came, he called his disciples to him and chose twelve of them, whom he also designated apostles: <sup>14</sup> Simon (whom he named Peter), his brother Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, <sup>15</sup> Matthew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Simon who was called the Zealot, <sup>16</sup> Judas son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became a traitor. God showed up, the Savior gave the disciples new marching orders and everything was great...RIGHT?

In (Luke 9:28-36) Jesus led his disciples to the mountain to pray. Please read it. Did God show up? And in this case Father God said to them (paraphrased), "don't get tied up in religiosity, "THIS is my SON. HEAR HIM. As they came down all went well...RIGHT?

Over the 15 years many of us have been together here at CPCC, we have lost many precious friends and family. God has also added many new faces who are now our fellow soldiers. There is one thing that we know, we have traveled to the high ground and God has redeemed new territory. We, as individuals and collectively, have been in the valleys. But in spite of all of our losses and pain, God continues to redeem territory for HIS plan.

I am very excited about this new adventure that we are about to embark on with God's Grace. We have reached another peak. I truly believed that our God is in this through the power of the finished work of Christ. We now have new marching orders. The battles that we have been engaged in, in the past, will look nothing like what God is moving us into now.

Jesus says, "Now go and make disciples". He also says, "love one another, encourage one another".

With that being said, we must prepare for battle. Jesus said, "in this world you WILL have trouble, but I have overcome the world".

So, let's walk off this mountain as individuals united by the covering of our Lord. Moving forward, let's continue the journey and be prepared to engage in whatever God has for us.

Grace,
Randy

What does worship look like?

What does worship look like? What should worship look like? Is it somber and reverent or is it loud and enthusiastic? Is it bowed heads, silent reflection and folded hands or is it raised palms, shouts of amen and hallelujah and stomping feet? Well, the answer is... pretty much, all of that.

In scripture there are countless descriptions of what worship can and should look like, and they don't always go together. There is shouting (Psalm 5:11; 32:11; 35:27; 132:9; Hebrews 5:7), there is reverent bowing (Psalm 95:6; Philippians 2:10; I Corinthians 14:25), there is clapping (Psalm 47:1-2), there is silence in reflection and learning (Acts 11:18; Habakkuk 2:20), there is the raising of hands (Psalm 134:2) and there is, of course, worship through prayer (Philippians 4:6). A funny thing to note here is in the praying with folded hands.

This is a common practice when we pray, yet not one supported by scripture. Folding hands to pray is a Christian tradition thought to have come out of a practice of shutting out the world to focus on God, but it isn't ever mentioned or instructed in scripture. The Bible specifically mentions praying while standing, kneeling, sitting and it talks about the raising or opening the arms and hands (which is a sign of receiving God's blessing), but it never tells us to fold our hands.

What's important here, in all of these things, is not so much about posture, styles or even how often we do these things. What I would like us to explore is our intent with what we are doing. What is behind the heart of our praise?

John 4:24 tells us that the Lord desires us to worship Him "in spirit and in truth." We, as humans and children of God, were created by God to worship and glorify Him, period. Let me say that again in a slightly different way, the ONLY REASON we exist is to praise our Heavenly Father. Therefore, this is what we should be doing. This is our calling. Matthew 6 warns against using prayer and worship to glorify ourselves, so we must go before Him in humility and pure reverence. Now, in researching scripture for this article, I found multiple descriptions of loud and enthusiastic worship, and while quite less, even some of quiet worship. So, is there a right way? Here is what does seem clear, when we worship, however we worship, we are to focus on Him and Him alone. If we are making a spectacle of our worship to draw attention to ourselves, that isn't worship, that's our flesh seeking recognition. But we must also be careful not to be too distracted by how someone else is worshiping. When we are unbalanced in either area, we are putting our focus on the wrong thing and not the King of kings.

We are blessed to be part of a church body that is as diverse as the scriptures I mentioned above. While we continue to grow and stretch as a church body, we should be respectful of someone who doesn't worship exactly the same way we might. Whether you're more reserved or more animated, be considerate of one another. Consider your Father in Heaven first, though. It's not about what or who is right, it's always about WHO it is to. We're all praying to the same God, and He speaks to us in different ways just as we pour out to Him in different ways. The most important thing here is to make sure it is OF Him and FOR Him before we offer it TO Him.

As your worship leader, I think I am pretty widespread across the spectrum. Any of you who have been in service and worshiped with me know that I value hitting your knees and offering your body as a prostrate sacrifice in humility to God as much as I do putting your hands together and being so moved by the Spirit that the pews can't confine you. I celebrate both enthusiastic and humble, reverent worship. Will you join me in asking God to continue to direct our worship? Ask Him to help us remained focused on Him. Ask Him for peace and wisdom and the ability to respect someone that may not worship exactly like you do. Then, on Sunday, show up with a full heart, ready to pour out that perfect, spotless offering to the Lord. Do it loud or do it soft, it doesn't matter, just do it for Him.

Sabbath Rest

I have come to realize the importance of sabbath rest. I don't know if you are anything like me, but I sure do lack making rest with the Lord a priority in my life. The first two years of full time ministry here at CPCC, I was so crazy busy I only rested with the Lord a total of four days. That's right, four days over two years! Let me tell you, that was one of the worse decisions of my life.

I found myself easily angered and frustrated with those around me. Anything that I could not control would stress me out and give me anxiety. I had lost my joy in the Lord and in ministering to the youth. I found I was exhausted after getting adequate sleep at night. I was battling thoughts almost everyday that told me I had no purpose. I was starting to believe those were true. Looking back, I have come to realize, I was burnt out and had allowed satan to tell me lie, after lie, after lie. Those lies put me in a complete state of depression and anxiety.

But God, just like Ephesians 2:4 says, "who is rich in mercy and love for me, saved me from that constant state of being." He sent many great women and mentors who almost always asked me the same question... "Are you resting in the Lord?" Obviously the answer was no. It took many hints from God to get my attention and for me to finally realize that I needed to take time to rest with Him.

So why does Sabbath rest need to be a priority in our lives? The sabbath helps us to remember and practice some very important things in our lives. When we decide to take time out of our week, even if that means not getting everything done, we are surrendering to God. We are surrendering the fact that we are ultimately NOT the creator and sustainer of our lives - God is. Sabbath can also be thought of as an act of trusting God. To practice the sabbath is a disciplined and faithful way to remember, we are NOT the ones who keep the world running.

Being intentional about resting with the Lord is not only a declaration to those around us, but also to our own thoughts and hearts, that God is the one who sustains us. God should be the one in which we find our joy, peace, comfort and rest. He is the one who provides us with strength in every situation. If we are neglecting personal time with Him, we are not being refilled and that's when we leave ourselves wide open for satan to take a hit at us.

How do we rest with the Lord? For me it means eliminating all distractions around me. I clear my mind of all the things stressing me out and ask the Lord to remind me that He is in control. I then take time to worship and talk to Him, about it all. Then I read scripture. I digest it by asking myself these questions: What do I learn about God, myself and others in this passage? How does this apply to my life? What do I believe God is trying to teach me from this? Then, I sit in silence with the Lord. There are many ways to rest with the Lord. Find what works for you. Just make sure you are focusing on Him and taking time to remember - He is the one who sustains us.

God has challenged me to make it a priority to intentionally rest with Him. When is the last time you took time to rest with the Lord? When did you last stop worrying about life and everyone around you, and took time to remind yourself that God is the creator and sustainer?

PRAYING FOR ABBY

In October 2019, Abby White set off for missionary training with Youth With A Mission (YWAM) in Newcastle, Australia. Currently she and a team of students are training in outreach in several different areas. As the team's time in outreach draws closer to an end, prayers for strength are greatly appreciated. CPCC is excited to hear how God is moving in Abby's life as she realizes a dream the Lord put on her heart at the age of 8.

March at Doorstep

Thank you to everyone who donated soup and crackers during our Souper Bowl Sunday collection! A can of soup can be a meal or two, and your generous donations helped to stock our pantry, and provide meals for your neighbors in need! We set a goal of 3 ton = 6,000 pounds for this year. The total brought in was 5,483 pounds! Thank you!

We also want to thank everyone who contributed to our 17th Annual Operation Soup Line! Whether you made desserts, donated or won a theme basket, bought or sold tickets, ordered delivery, worked the event or just attended, we appreciate the support! Monies raised from Soup Line will help Doorstep with agency expenses, and help provide rent and utility assistance to our neighbors who are struggling and need help.

Mark your calendars for Doorstep's 3rd Annual Neighbors Helping Neighbors Walk/5K Run at Lake Shawnee. The big day is Sunday, October 4th at 2pm! Come out and support Doorstep, and get some exercise at the same time! We made over $6,000 last year, and have a goal of $9,000 for our third year! Note that we moved it to Sunday afternoon for 2020!
