“Lean into Wisdom”

Life is full on interesting inconsistencies, contradictions and oxymorons. Essentially those are statements that tend to contradict themselves. Dolly Parton once said, “It cost a fortune to look this cheap.” Andy Warhol said, “I am a deeply superficial person.”

Anthony Haden once said, “Of course I can keep secrets. It’s the people I tell them to that can’t keep them.” And then this quip from Mark Twain is a classic, “I can resist everything but temptation.” Then there is my all-time favorite from W.C. Fields, “The best cure for insomnia is to get a lot of sleep.”

And you know what? We are a fallen people that live many of our own contradictions. Now the reason I even bring this to conversation today is because we live in a day and age that the one consistent truth, the one consistent source of truth, and the only consistent being to ever exist, is constantly under attack as being a contradiction.

If you google the phrase “contradictions in the bible”, you will find about 38,900,000 results in (0.62 seconds). I’m not even kidding. You find people who are looking to find where the Bible says one thing, and then contradicts itself later.

Look, it is one thing to speak contradictions, but to assign contradiction to God and His word is dangerous ground, folks. Most of the arguments are easy to refute and address, but what happens is we engage in a battle ill-equipped and fall into the trap of fighting with fools.

Proverbs 26:4-5 ~ ⁴Do not answer a fool according to his folly, or you yourself will be just like him. ⁵Answer a fool according to his folly, or he will be wise in his own eyes.

Now read from a little bit more modern version of this from the NIV.

⁴Do not answer a fool according to his folly, or you yourself will be just like him. ⁵Answer a fool according to his folly, or he will be wise in his own eyes.

So, there it is. Don’t answer a fool, and then answer the fool. What in the world does that even mean? While there will be times we will want to remain quiet so to avoid the trap, there will be times we must speak up. How do we gauge that? We must know with whom we are dealing.

We are talking about two different types of fools. One knows he is foolish and is looking for trouble, and the other is foolish and likely unaware of it.

What Solomon is driving at is this, it is dangerous to let someone remain foolish that may not see it. These might be people who are, at the very least, open to being shown that they are foolish in their thought process.

We should not desire them to believe they are wise if we can see there is hope they will listen. We should not allow them to stay there if it can lead them to pain and to miss out on the hope of Jesus. Let me give you an example...

If you saw children running around on a busy street, would you not step in? You would not want them to get hurt, right? So how many people do you have in your life that continue in patterns of sin and pain?

How many people just continue to walk into a situation really believing they (themselves) are wise, only to end up hurt again and again? This is where we are called to step in, friends. Maybe, just maybe, God has placed you in their lives to help them avoid the same folly over and over, especially when they can't see it. You might be the one they will listen to.

If your motivation is for their good, and not just to be right, pray for godly wisdom to cover you and go after it. You will regret not speaking up when you had the chance, especially if they keep hurting themselves. Again, you really want to discern well before you lead in.

The ability to grow in discernment is not going to be found in some book or blog. The only way to grow in this area is in the power of Jesus Christ. If you love to tell people off, lean into Jesus.

If you don't know how to speak up at the right time, lean into Jesus. If you struggle with anger and being vindictive when disputing against something, lean into Jesus. And even when you are gifted in discernment, lean into Jesus.

Look at the example He set. He knew when to speak hard truths and He knew when to remain silent. He knew when to correct and how to do it. It's one of the many reasons people were so drawn to Him. He taught how it should be done.

He never answered folly with folly. He did not fall into the trap of playing mind games with the chief priests. He read every situation and the people involved and responded according to the need. When people sought healing, He sought their heart, "Go and sin no more." When His disciples questioned what He was doing, He confronted and taught them more truth. When Jewish leaders questioned Him at His trial in Matthew 26, He did not answer their folly. Nothing was going to change the outcome or change them. They were looking for more chaos.

Jesus did not allow His truth to be disturbed. Jesus discerned every situation and spoke when needed. He spoke truth to refute folly, He spoke love into lies and He spoke life into death. And when He did not speak, He was speaking louder than any words could!

Jesus produces this in those who follow Him. If you are lacking in it, or not growing in it, hunker down and ask God to lead you in it. If you are lacking or not growing because of sin, repent and ask Jesus to show you where you lack in wisdom. Lean in and learn.

Swimming in the deep end,

- Derek

A New Chapter

Dear Central Park Family,

Over the years you may have read one or more of my newsletters. If you have, you may have noticed that I am drawn to history. Historic events fascinate me, especially when it comes to old churches.

On my office walls you will see old pictures, most of which are connected to Central Park Christian Church (CPCC). One of my favorites has been hanging there since 2006. It's very special to me because the man who gave me the picture was residing at Manor Care Retirement Home. After I had finished teaching a Bible class there on a Saturday morning, the gentleman approached me with a photo rolled into a tube. The man slowly pulled the picture from the tube and carefully laid it out on the table. As he did, he took his finger and pointed to a mother holding a small child. He said to me "See that little baby? That's me at Central Park in 1931."

One thing for sure, any surviving church will have documented history, and within that history, it will show the chapters like a book. Chapters of the Bible, if you will. And, as you read the book, every chapter has something different and exciting to share about people, lives and events that took place before we were here.

Many thousands of people have passed through these doors at 1535 SW Clay St. since 1922. We, as a new part of the body of Christ, passed through these doors in December of 2004. It was Christmas Eve and we had approximately 400 people in attendance that evening.

It is now June of 2021. People have come and gone, many have passed away, others have aged out. The most exciting part is that we have many young new faces coming in - coming in with energy and vibrance. They bring with them new babies and young children who will be the next chapter in the book of Central Park Christian Church.

As part of CPCC's history, it is with a glad heart and a sad heart that I am announcing my resignation as your Outreach Pastor. My chapter is written, a new and exciting adventure awaits all of you. Proceed slowly and listen to Jesus. Don't get anxious, let Jesus begin the new chapter.

Unless our Lord would change something, my departure date will be August 15, 2021.

Thank you for loving me,
Randy

I'll get to it

The icemaker in my freezer isn't working, it probably just needs defrosted. No big deal, I just turned it off and have been using the ice trays I had to make sure we can keep our drinks cold. Defrosting isn't a real hard thing to do...I'll get to it eventually.

The sink in the half bath on our first floor has a leak in the connection for the cold water supply. Probably just needs a rubber washer or something. I just turned it off, you really only need the hot water to wash your hands anyway and plus, the kitchen sink is just a room away...I'll get to it.

Six years in this house has done a number on the paint on the walls and baseboards, several rooms could use a good touch up. But you know, there's nothing major, it's just dings and scuffs here and there and honestly, you have to look close to notice most of them. Plus, it's just proof that the house is "lived in." Yeah, you guessed it...I'll get to it.

Those are just a few examples of things around my house that I've been putting off lately. I make excuses about being too busy or being preoccupied with bigger, more pressing household projects. And honestly, I probably will eventually get to them, but what if I don't? What if that ice maker really does just need defrosted and there's ice in the line? What if then, somebody goes to get something out of the freezer and bumps the switch, turning the ice maker back on with a frozen line? What if that causes the line to burst and does even more severe damage to the fridge and my kitchen in the process? Putting that simple couple-hour-long job off could potentially cost me more time and money than it ever should have come close to costing.

Aren't our lives like this a lot of the time? I should take my wife out on a really nice date night that's just about her...I'll get to it. I should spend more quality time with my kids and get them (and myself) off those phones...I'll get to it. I should go visit my grandma or at least call her more often...I'll get to it. I should volunteer to help more at church...I'll get to it. I should spend more time in devotions and prayer every day...I'll get to it. I should really deal with that one thing in my life the Lord is convicting me about...yeah, that's right, I'll get to it.

We come up with excuses all the time, we make light of the seriousness of the situation, and honestly on most of these things we probably will get to them...but what if we don't? If God has put something on your heart and He reminds you of it frequently, in the same way I'm reminded that I need to fix that ice maker every time I fill the trays, listen to Him. Don't let what could be a few minutes out of your day or a little time spent working or planning something, or just simply worshiping Him, turn into something that will cost you more than it ever would have come close to otherwise.

Love you, thanks for listening, I'm gonna go defrost my freezer.

The Exceptional Teacher

I recently read a chapter out of my devotion book, “Invitation to the Jesus Life”, that was perfect timing as we get ready for our summer camps. This chapter gave a glimpse into how Jesus was an exceptional and relational teacher.

First off, everyone is a teacher. This is something I press upon our youth. I am no different than them, I just have a title in front of my name. They are teachers and disciples of Christ just as much as I am. Standing in front of a group in the role of a teacher is not the only way to teach, and sometimes it’s not the best way. Although Jesus taught that way, He spent even more time teaching by INTERACTING with people, in on-the-spot situations. Teaching involves delivering content, but also means letting people watch how you live and ask questions about why you do what you do. During middle school youth group I had a bunch of girls talking about their day and how they interacted with their peers and teachers. While they were talking, I asked them how their actions and attitudes were a light to their peers just as Moses’ actions were for the Israelites. I explained that people know they go to church and these people are watching how they act even when they don’t know they are watching. Do their actions bring hope?

Do your actions display the character of how you want to represent the God you serve?

A great thing about Jesus is that when he interacted with people, He gave them plenty of latitude, He asked questions that made them think and He presented truth in creative ways in order to wake them up. His primary way of teaching was to invest in people. He, and his team (the disciples), interacted deeply in the lives of people. Doing things together in everyday life was important, because His goal was to train people to follow Him. He taught them how to love and serve God in everything they did, ultimately giving God the glory!!

I firmly believe that one week of camp is worth more than a year of meetings. Life in the Kingdom should be caught as much as taught. Jesus invested in people and, when we invest in people, we can interact with individuals according to their needs and enlarge their faith in the precise way they need, rather than using a one-size-fits-all approach. Truth can be spoken in love! Jesus is a brilliant teacher who challenges us to follow diligently. He used parables, questions, case studies, everyday objects and puzzling statements to speak love and truth into those around Him. He loved those with whom He did life. He told us to “learn from me” (Matthew 11:29) and God told Jesus’ disciples, “listen to Him!” (Matthew 17:5). We too can become people who continually learn from Jesus. We can continue to become more like Jesus and we can learn to teach the truth like Jesus did.

Be praying for us this summer. Pray that when we get to do life with the youth, that we will invest in their lives and speak truth to them in a group; but more importantly, as individuals. Pray we can meet their needs right where they are. Pray we become more and more like Jesus, speaking truth in love, and helping the youth see they are more than enough and their identity lies in the LORD!!

The WHY for ministry

I am writing this article to help me remember why God called me to Central Park, and also to share how God has been moving in the hearts and minds of the children in our community. During our Thursday evening children's program, we continue to answer the question, "Who is God?" I love this series as it reminds me of the many attributes of God. Through the series, I have been challenged to dig deeper into some of these attributes in order to help the kids understand them. The greatest thing I see on Thursdays are kids, who I often wonder if they are even listening, start to ask questions that prove they are serious about getting to know Jesus. I love these questions...I love when I get to share truth with them...and I know this is why God called me here to Central Park.

Recently, one of the most incredible things I have heard from a child happened the week of May 13th. We had been talking about God's power of omniscience. After the lesson and final prayer, I asked if anyone had a question or comment about the lesson. A sweet, but ornery, 1st grade boy raised his hand. I called on him and he said, "Miss Miranda, I am thankful that God knew I would mess up and need Jesus. Jesus loves me and died for me, so I get to go to heaven someday." That right there is faith in Jesus! That young boy knows the truth and he believes it. My heart melted. As I think back to that moment, I realize that is why God called me to Central Park. This is my WHY for ministry. I am called to teach truth and to show Jesus' love to these children. My prayer is that this sweet boy never loses that faith and continues to grow his love for Jesus. He then continued to add that he believes God has a big mansion in Heaven made out of gold. He said one day he is going to get to have a room in God's mansion. We can learn so much about trust and faith from children! I believe God not only called me here to teach and to love, but to learn as well.

PRAYER REQUESTS

Please be praying for us this summer! We are so excited for camp and what God will do in the hearts and minds of the more than 40 kids we have attending our three camps. Our first camp is our awesome high school one June 7th-13th. Prayers for safe travels as we drive to Texas are appreciated. Then we head to Solomon, Kansas for our middle school camp June 28th-July 2nd. From there we get a 4-day break before we head back to Solomon for our preteen camp July 7th-9th. Lastly we will do our awesome VBS the week of August 2nd-6th.

Whew! We have a fun-filled, packed summer ahead!

Assessing Our Needs

Hello, Central Park Christian Church!

As you may have expected, the big news from the elders this month is the announced departure of Randy Lesseski on August 15, 2021 and the announced retirement of Lynda Buchanan on July 31, 2021. Please see Lynda's letter below. We are grateful for both Randy's and Lynda's years of service to Central Park Christian Church. We look forward to seeing where God takes them and, Central Park from here. We wish Randy, his wife Kim, and Lynda the best and ask that you pray for them as they follow God wherever He leads them.

With their departures just months away, we will be working to assess the needs of the church. We want to be very intentional with the process of determining the next steps. This process will take some time and we will do our best to keep you informed. Please understand there are things related to personnel that we just cannot discuss publicly or privately outside of the elder board. We covet your prayers for wisdom as we seek God's leading.

As always, the congregation is invited to join us for weekly prayer meetings on Sunday mornings and Monday evenings at 8:30AM and 5:30PM respectively. As we enter the summer, it is important to stay connected to God and to one another. These prayer meetings are a great way to deepen the connection by spending some quality time together in the Father's throne room.

Retirement ANNOUNCEMENT

It is with great sadness that I, Lynda Buchanan, will be retiring as Treasurer, Administrative Assistant/Comptroller of Central Park Christian Church as of July 31, 2021.

I had planned in 2005, on retiring with Pastor Tim when he retired. Oh my! Sixteen years have passed so quickly and his retirement was at hand. I felt compelled to stay with the transition for the upcoming Lead Pastor. Then COVID came upon us all and we had to begin doing things differently...then another year quickly passed. Now, I honestly believe, after much prayer and contemplation to begin retirement while I am still able to enjoy it.

Through much time in prayer and preparation, it is now with a happy heart that, I truly believe, our Heavenly father has so much more for me to do to further His Kingdom. I am willing and He is faithful!

At Central Park, I have been blessed beyond measure with long lasting friendships who have all become "Family". My coming to CPCC has taught me the true meaning of "serving", "servant hood", helping the helpless and seeing the restoration of souls being saved through our Lord Jesus. I will miss seeing "my friends" daily. These friendships were made through Him and they will remain, by His Grace, with me.

Praying upward and going forward as we all "Head for Home."

Lynda Buchanan

JUNE DEACONESS

Lynda Buchanan
& Cyndie Rexer

This month begins Doorstep's 55th year of providing service to our neighbors in need in the Topeka community and surrounding areas. We are planning a year-long celebration of this anniversary as we seek "to invite, involve, include and inspire people to participate in Doorstep's mission".

As member congregations of Doorstep, we know that many of you participate in Doorstep in a variety of ways. Whether you are a regular or occasional volunteer, or you donate food, clothing, household and monetary gifts; or whether you buy quilt drawing tickets or cinnamon rolls or bake cakes for Soup Line or join our Walk/5K Run, it takes all of us working together to make Doorstep work! And, clearly it is working as we enter our 55th year of service!

Currently, we are planning a kick-off for late June, as we seek to raise awareness and funds for our assistance programs, capital improvements, Doorstep's endowment fund and operating expenses throughout this next year. For example, our HVAC system is original to the building, which we own, and is over 60 years old. It is time for an upgrade, and we need to raise funds for a new, more efficient system.

More information will be going out to our congregations and local media and will be posted on our Facebook page in June and throughout the next year regarding ways you can help Doorstep and continue to be a part of the work we do as neighbors helping neighbors.
